

Inaugural CA full-state championship series?

Posted by 944Racer72 - 18 Nov 2014 10:00

I'd like to come down and run some SOCAL events in 2015. Anyone want to combine several events and maybe make our own points series? Maybe we could all put up some cash or prizes to make it more interesting?

I looked at both schedules and propose the following:

Feb 28 Willow Springs

Mar 14 Sonoma

Apr 18 Thunderhill

May 16 Autoclub

Jun 13 Buttonwillow

Jul 31 Laguna Seca

Sep 26 Sonoma

Oct 10 Buttonwillow

Points collected per NASA scoring. 4 race drops in season tally. $200 entry fee to run the series. Winner gets 30%, 15% for 2nd, 10% 3rd. Remainder of money pays for trophies and anything left is distributed evenly to everyone. We might be able to find some sponsorship as well.

I volunteer to organize and track the "series" or I'm fine to put that to vote or whatever people want to do.

Let's go have some fun this year! Who's in?

Re: Inaugural CA full-state championship series?

Posted by rd7839 - 06 Jan 2015 12:00

Has this idea lost traction? I'm making travel plans and am wondering if racing in so cal will be part of them.

Re: Inaugural CA full-state championship series?

Posted by Atteberry - 20 Jan 2015 20:34

I hope the idea is still of interest to others. I am planning on making two trips to Nor. Cal. Aug. 29-30 and Sept. 26-27 I

Re: Inaugural CA full-state championship series?

Posted by norman#99 - 22 Jan 2015 06:16

To bad Feb 7,8 at Chuckwalla isn't a part of this. We have 10 committed at this point and I am sure a couple more will still sign up. It's one of our better tracks. There is also a comp school and I think we have a couple of 944's in the class that can run with us on Sunday.

Anybody want to dome down from NorCal or any of the other regions for this SoCal NASAAZ crossover, you should, we don't see this size fields at local events much anymore.

Thanks,

Norm

Re: Inaugural CA full-state championship series?

Posted by Atteberry - 17 Feb 2015 18:05

Our SoCal event is coming up at Willow Springs in a little less than two weeks anyone from NorCal considering coming down to what is a very fast track

I am planning to do a few SCCA events this year that are being held at Laguna Seca anyone else interested in attending. There is also a Speed Ventures event being held at Laguna Seca as well.
