

1983 944 For Sale in Orlando

Posted by Ori27 - 26 May 2009 02:50

I have a 1983 Porsche 944 that would be the perfect Spec 944 base car-

I literally found this car in a barn, and am in the process of cleaning it up.

What I can tell at this point is that the car has a cracked windshield, and the carpet and seat(s) are no good.

There was a receipt in the glovebox from a local Porsche shop that reflects $973 in engine work, which included:

• Disassemble engine front

• Replace seals and sleeves for camshaft, balance shafts, and crank shaft.

• Install new cam and balance shaft belts, set tensions.

• Replace slotted roller for balance belt.

• Replace water pump and NAD thermostat.

Additionally, the shop noted:

• No output from charging system

• Needs vacuum lines at fuel pressure regulator

• Brakes frozen

• Needs front stabilizer bar

• Needs engine mounts

• Pan gasket wet at corners

• Needs bottom left radiator mount

The car appears to be otherwise solid, and would convert to a Spec 944 very easily.

The car has no title but I am the legal owner. I will provide a complete bill of sale.

The car is located in Orlando, FL.

I will be cleaning it up and posting more information about it as I go. I will formally put it up for sale late this week, but if anyone wants to make an offer or ask questions in the meantime please call me at 407.415.1900.

Thanks

=====

Re:1983 944 For Sale in Orlando

Posted by chrisbany - 07 Jul 2009 10:59

I'm in Orlando and very interested in a Spec 944. If car is still avail please contact me at

This e-mail address is being protected from spambots. You need JavaScript enabled to view it

Thanks,

Chris Bany

=====