944-SPEC - 944SPEC - low cost wheel to wheel racing

Generated: 5 July, 2025, 08:26

Т	h	а	n	ks	ı
		u		$\cdot \cdot \cdot$	•

Posted by rd7839 - 16 Apr 2013 12:56

I just wanted to publicly thank the Nor cal 944 spec guys for all the help they gave me this weekend with my car. Since revamping my car in the offseason I thought I was race ready. A quick trip around the block though showed I had no brakes. I ended up taking a week off work to try and straighten them out all to no avail. I was going to back out of the weekend race but the guys all said they would fix my car at the track so I came anyway. True to their words, everybody pitched in and we swapped almost every part in the system at least once, but some multiple times trying to figure out what was going on. Late into the night friday and early saturday morning they helped out. Saturday afternoon and evening we worked, as well as sunday all to no avail but it wasn't for lack of effort. I would like to thank Jerry Whitteridge, Aubie Schmidt, Ken Meyers of IO Port racing, and of course Lil' Kat! Also John from Evil Genius for guidance. Special thanks have to go to Jim Foxx, who gave me every spare part from his trailer he had willingly, and who wouldn't let me pack up and go home. He got his hands dirty working on my car more than his own!

Steve Lewis also deserves my profound thanks. This offseason he did a ton of work on my car, taking time away from his family to help me make my car a front runner. His wife Ruth and kids Molly and Nate welcomed us into their home while we worked on the car. Steve had big problems with his car but still made time to run into town to get a bench bleeding kit, and donated several cans of brake fluid that I could dump onto the ground. He was unable to race his car but still hung out to see if we could get mine working.

We never did get my car working good but not from lack of effort. I believe I either have a bad booster, or the hard lines are clogged, or maybe both. Everything else was changed repeatedly.

Every time I race I remember why 944spec is so great. The car is good but the people are what makes coming to the track worthwhile. I enjoy my friendships with these people more than the racing
