

Recommend Headgasket

Posted by rlw - 07 Mar 2011 13:22

I had my head resurfaced (shaved) according to the rules. What is the best head gasket to use? Is the standard Victor Reinz ok or do I need one with a different thickness?

Thanks,

RLW

What is the head thickness as measured from the factory reference block? Then read the 944 spec rules, section 11.5.2, I think. Given your engine specifics, that should answer your question.

Unless you shaved your head a lot, and are pushing the limits hard, stay with the standard head gasket.

The head is only mildly shaved so sounds like the standard headgasket should work fine.

Thanks!
