Would this seat be legal for 944 spec?

And, I know a lot of lotus elise guys slot their seats for submarine belts and pass tech, would I be able to do that to this seat and still be legal?

Hey Joe(hey that sounds like a song!)

I'd be interested in the seat if it's still for sale, I'm looking for a passenger seat so I can take my wife for a ride. Let me know

Thanks

Ron

I wont go for the obvious comments as I know Kim would beat me up !

Do you want me to bring my spare seat and harness up this weekend ? The only thing I might not have is the mounting bolts if you have a late car (early car is covered). I should have space and you are welcome to use it for the weekend.

Thanks Jerry,

Kim's probably not going to make it this weekend, she's on call with the police/fire dept's as a sort of grief counselor( I might need that help if I don't win this weekend). I am just looking for a good deal on a spare seat for open track days or weekday hpde's. I also know a couple of guys who are interested in racing but when I mention 944 spec they think it sounds a little slow They understand the budget argument but until I can take them through turn 8 flat out they won't believe how fast and fun our cars are. As far as Kim goes, after her Lemons experience she has a newfound respect for all racers(even me I think!). Her Lemons T shirt came with a black collar and black cuffs on the sleeves and of course i had to point out that was one for each black flag she got. I slept alone for a few days! Seriously she did great and her last black flag came because she was trying to go through the cyclone without braking which I never would even consider!

If I don't find a seat though, I may take you up on the loan at some future date.

See you friday

Ron
