

RM region emissions exhaust

So i got to thinking(scary thought) since alot of us still drive to the track/ need to register our cars for towing we should have at least one untouched exhaust that we can pass around and attach for the purpose of emissions testing. Does anyone have one lying around that we can hold onto? You guys like this idea or find other ways to beat the system?

Sounds like a good idea.

I chose to use the system to my advantage though...
