

Who is racing in Texas this year?

Posted by Timwold - 06 Mar 2013 11:37

2013 looks like it can be a fun and interesting year in a 944.

There are a few builds under way and some people have gone back to the ways of cave men, so who will be racing this year in a 944- PCA or NASA?

1. Todd Imwold
2. Steve Coomes
3. Chris Blazer (Kansas City but he is down here enough)
4. Bill Georgas
5. Jason Stanley (till June)

Please respond and lets see the number of drivers we have in the state.

Re: Who is racing in Texas this year?

Posted by bg993 - 06 Mar 2013 12:45

I hope to be done with my car soon. Just need it back from the fabricator.....

Hoping to do some testing in April, and get into the PCA event at COTA in May.....

Bill

Bill Georgas

'83 Soon to be SP1

Angry Monkey ChumpCar (it's an '86 or '87 944)

Re: Who is racing in Texas this year?

Posted by AgRacer - 06 Mar 2013 14:54

I raced at MSR-H in January with NASA. It was just me and Phil H. Weather was beautiful. New tires are awesome. We ran RA-1s the first day and RRs the second day.

I am trying to get off work next week end to go racing at Cresson, but its not looking good. I am also scheduled to be out of town for the April race at TWS but if I can get back early, Ill be at the track.

May is a different story, however. I plan on taking leave for both the NASA race at NOLA the first week end and the PCA race at COTA the second week end. I just sent off all my paperwork for my PCA license so hopefully that will be good to go by May. If you havent been to COTA yet, make every effort you can to go ASAP. It is an absolutely stunning facility, and every driver that's driven on it so far has put it up with the top race tracks in the world.

After May, where I race may change based on where Im stationed. There is a possibility that I may be moving anywhere from June onward so I cant say what races Ill be at.

Phil H. and I have talked about going to Nationals this year, and/or another NASA region race. Dave B. has offered free admission to any RMR race so I may look at hauling up to Pueblo in July.

Re: Who is racing in Texas this year?

Posted by Timwold - 07 Mar 2013 07:29

Pueblo is a fun track- the facilities are not much to talk about but the track is a lot of fun. I have not run it since the change in turn 10 (on the front straight/grag strip).

Re: Who is racing in Texas this year?

Posted by B1BFlyer - 07 Mar 2013 07:39

I should be good to go for Cresson, but we'll see since Jeff and BJ are still working to resolve the oil leak on my engine.

I'm planning on racing through June as well, then I may or may not deploy for 6 months. Nationals would be great if I can swing it.

There were also 2 more 924s at Clownshoe that had cages installed by Jeff for a husband and wife. Not sure if NASA or PCA though.

Cheers,

Ryan

=====

Re: Who is racing in Texas this year?

Posted by AgRacer - 12 Mar 2013 06:54

Looks like I'll be moving to Alabama for sure in June until October. After that, who knows...

=====